Professor Schmidt is a new, enthusiastic Assistant Professor in your department. Prof. Schmidt is very new to teaching, and you know they have been spending way too much time prepping for every class session. Unfortunately, despite all the prep time, they've been getting negative teaching reviews.

What are your concerns?

As Chair, what could/would/should you do?

You have heard from three of Professor Herrera's graduate students that Prof. Herrera frequently cancels their meetings and is very slow to provide feedback on their work. One student also told you that Prof. Herrera often yells at students and treats them rudely. Professor Herrera has been in the department for about 4 years.

What are your concerns?

As Chair, what could/would/should you do?

Professor Smith is a senior member of your department, and they seem stuck. They are still reasonably productive, but they've clearly slowed down and just don't seem to be very interested in their work anymore. Professor Smith has noticeably pulled back from department life, and other faculty have made comments about this to you.

What concerns do you have?

As Chair, what could/would/should you do?

RESOURCES AND TOOLS

RECRUITING AND LAUNCHING NEW FACULTY MEMBERS (a Reminder)

EXCERPTED SLIDES FROM VP PHIL KASS' PRESENTATION DURING THE TWO-DAY WORKSHOP FOR NEW CHAIRS

Getting a new Assistant Professor started

- Be very present during the settling-in
 - Visit the new office and/or lab space prior to the move – make sure it's ready for the move; if it isn't, establish alternate setting
 - Check on status of home hunt, settling in; maybe a dinner invitation with peers at your home
- Facilitate mentoring and networking interactions
 - Department member advocate / outside contacts
 - Use the campus membership in the National Center for Faculty Development and Diversity; consider funding enrollment in the SUCCESS program ($3250)
 - UC Davis ADVANCE LAUNCH program for pre-tenure hires in STEM
- Explain expected standards, and the schedule of reviews, appraisal, tenure (including the clock extension option)... develop a Plan for Progress together
- For the first teaching experience, consider pairing with a more seasoned instructor
- Check in frequently, encourage outside-of-department networking
- Remember, non-majority faculty are more likely to feel like outsiders

Getting a new tenured professor started

- Visit the new office and/or lab space
- Check on status of house hunt, etc.
- Mentoring is still important for Associate Professors
 - Talk about schedule of merit reviews, and expectations for the next promotion
 - Associate Professors, especially, can struggle with service load, lack of mentoring, and expectations for promotion to Full Professor
 - Membership in the National Center for Faculty Development and Diversity— a national mentoring network-- Consider sponsoring for NCFDD Faculty Success program
 - UC Davis Associate Professor Network (Academic Affairs)
 - Associate Professor Brown Bags
- Full Professors-- consider mentoring for leadership positions
 - Use their experience to identify better practices from prior institutions
 - Explain high-level merit expectations (P6, Above Scale)!

Boosting the trajectory towards excellence

- Monitor the faculty member's progress— grants, publications or other creative works, teaching issues, service
 - Encourage faculty to curate an online academic profile— e.g. Google Scholar Citations, Research Gate
 - Funding issues— consider a pre-review set of faculty advisors
 - Make sure that service load is not limiting other activities
 - Volunteer to be the “bad guy” for junior faculty
 - Be cognizant of and document the greater service and mentoring pressures experienced by women and underrepresented minorities
 - Teaching issues— Center for Educational Excellence has superb programming!
- Be proactive in nominating deserving faculty for awards and honors
- Gather data that will make the case for Step Plus advancements > 1.0 steps
